The requirements of IATF 16949 and ISO 9001

Training course objectives

1. An overview of conditions related to the functioning of quality management systems in the automotive industry.

2. An overview of the requirements of IATF 16949:2016 and ISO 9001:2015.

Training course programme

Hours	Subject	Method of training
Day I
9:00-16.00	Start of the training: presentation of the trainer and participants, collecting participants' expectations, presentation of goals and programme	Moderated discussion
	Introduction and requirements of the IATF 16949:2016 standard • introduction to the specificity of the automotive sector • Quality Management System (QMS) according to IATF 16949:2016 and ISO 9001:2015 - the idea of changes • process approach and risk-based thinking, • PDCA model An overview of the requirements of the IATF 16949:2016 including ISO 9001:2015 as an integral part of IATF 16949:2016 • context of the organisation • leadership, • planning, • support, • operational activities, • evaluation of effects, • improvement	Knowledge test Lectures Discussions
Day II
9:00-12.30	An overview of the requirements of the IATF 16949:2016 including ISO 9001:2015 as an integral part of IATF 16949:2016 • context of the organisation • leadership, • planning, • support, • operational activities, • evaluation of effects, • improvement	Lecture Discussion Case study
13:15-16:00	Information about the most popular textbooks:	Lecture

	• advanced product quality planning - APQP, • product approval by the customer - PPAP, • measurement systems analysis - MSA, • statistical process control - SPC, • error prevention - FMEA, • customer specific requirements - manuals for suppliers - examples of requirements	Discussion Case study
	Exam in the form of a multiple choice test End of the training: summary of the objectives and participants' expectations, filling in evaluation questionnaires	Test Moderated discussion Questionnaires

Lunch breaks held at 12.30-13.15.

Coffee breaks will be set during the training course.

Participants

Employees of departments involved in the organisation's activities which require compliance with the IATF 16949:2016 technical specification.

Training course effects for participants and for the organisation

- Understanding the requirements for quality management systems in the automotive industry as defined in IATF 16949:2016 including related requirements of ISO 9001:2015.
- Acquiring the skills to interpret the requirements of the automotive industry as regards your own organisation.

The Document issued after Training Course

Certificate upon completion of the training q.v. "The requirements of the IATF 16949: 2016 and ISO 9001:2015" issued by the DEKRA Polska Company.